Dear Parents of our pupils!

You and your children have chosen our school - recently or some years ago - because you expect "something" from this school. We describe this special something as "Ignatian pedagogy"; with this we stand, together with many other schools, in the tradition of the Jesuits.

This results in a joint responsibility for a good, reliable future of the AKO: pedagogically, organisationally, but also economically.

In this leaflet we want to inform you about the contribution parents can make to economic security and what we cordially and urgently ask you to do.

Together, the school, the school board and parents in the guardianship and support association want to present the economic side of the college in a comprehensible and transparent way for everyone.

This leaflet serves this purpose. We also talk about it at the guardianship evenings and with new families. If you have any further questions or suggestions, please do not hesitate to contact us or others from the school management or the parent body. Contact details can be found on the back of the leaflet.

Aloisiuskolleg - Independent school

The German Basic Law obliges the state to permit independent schools if they offer the guarantee that they are an adequate substitute for public schools in terms of academic quality and school constitution.

However, for this possibility of designing schools free from public school administration and staff allocation, but still fully recognised by the state, own funds must be raised. This also applies to further offers of a school that go beyond the normal scope of public schools.

For us it is also important that we preserve the generous spatial possibilities in the long term, which, in addition to the profiled Ignatian pedagogy, characterise the Aloisiuskolleg.

Parents, the school and the school authorities have the common concern to further develop the school in this direction and to secure it economically and organisationally. The college ensures that the parents are informed about all important issues and participate in them.

We provide regular information on our website aloisiuskolleg.de/elternbeitrag and at the parents meetings.

At elternbeitrag@aloisiuskolleg.de parents can directly contact other parents involved in the process with questions and concerns, or they can write to the Executive Director gfg@aloisiuskolleg.de.

Expenditure - what does the Aloisiuskolleg cost?

1. "ordinary" school operation:

In NRW, public schools receive a subsidy for current personnel and supply costs; in return, we closely coordinate the staffing plan with the state. In addition, from the state's point of view, there are material costs comparable to those of public schools - but these are only partially refinanced by the state.

2. School building and grounds

It is important to us not only to finance current expenses, but also to maintain and develop the buildings and facilities in an appealing way in the long term. Responsible planning keeps this in mind, also to avoid surprises.

3. Costs pedagogical focus & offers

Many things that make up the Aloisiuskolleg deliberately go beyond the normal standard. Our central concern of special care for the individual ("cura personalis") is also an investment in staff, quality and equipment. Additional offers such as the Externat, AKO Forum, the Learning House and, of course, the refectory are financed by the participation fees.

4. "Price of Independence"

If we, as an independent school, want to determine essential questions of the design and organisation of our school ourselves, instead of being dependent on a municipal school administration, this means that we have to bear the costs of our own school administration ourselves.

We experienced the difference not least during the Corona pandemic, but the digitalisation of schools, for example, also makes it clear how important Independence is.

Revenues - how the AKO is financed

1. State substitute school funding:

According to the state constitution of North Rhine-Westphalia and the School Act, the state provides a subsidy for private school costs. However, public schools are placed in a worse position than public schools. Independent schools must therefore cover part of the costs themselves.

2. Grant Archdiocese of Cologne

The Archdiocese of Cologne, as the recipient of church tax, gives a limited subsidy within the framework of its own share of the school operating costs. The Jesuit Order as the school's sponsor has no such income from which it could give an ongoing subsidy.

3. Income from the operation of the college

With Mensa, Externat as well as AKO-Forum and Lernhaus, we have fee-based offers that are financed by participation fees.

Since 2018, we have also been generating rent from the former boarding school buildings, in particular in order to be able to finance investments and building maintenance for the school as well.

4. Donations and voluntary parental contributions

However, these financial resources are not enough. The Aloisiuskolleg depends on donations and a substantial contribution from parents. Still, no child is excluded from attending the school for financial reasons!

Small, large and large donations from former pupils and their parents make some special investments and scholarships for the boarding school and the refectory possible.

Making the Aloisiuskolleg happen

The Aloisiuskolleg Foundation supports the school and its many activities. This is made possible by voluntary parental contributions as well as donations from old pupils, former pupils and friends of the college.

In addition, there is financial income from the assets of the Foundation and the sub-foundations.

Only transparency creates trust

The finances of the Foundation, as well as the budget of the entire College, are audited externally within the framework of the annual financial statement according to the German Commercial Code (HGB). The budget is presented at least annually to the College Conference, where parents, students, the teaching staff and the officials discuss the fundamental issues of the College. The management presents the budget figures in detail to an economic committee of expert parents beforehand.

Voluntary parental contribution or donations

The Aloisiuskolleg is a non-profit organisation. Therefore, we are entitled to issue donation receipts.

If, however, the contribution is matched by a service, this is no longer considered "third-party benefit" and can therefore not be certified as a donation, because the amount serves to cover the operating costs or the school's own contribution.

Parental contributions - securing the future

Please give us a direct debit mandate or set up a standing order.

With your parental contributions you make the Aloisiuskolleg possible in the long term as an Ignatian school in the tradition of the Jesuits.

Alumni donations - making special investments possible

FWe would like to ask friends and especially alumni of the College to make a donation. Many an investment (most recently the extension of the externat or the theatre workshop, also the "Lernhaus") have been made possible by such generous donations.

Involvement in the Sponsors' Association (Förderverein)

Förderverein
Verein zur Förderung des
Aloisiuskollegs in Bad Godesberg e.V.

Independently of the college, parents of current and former pupils support our school in the booster club.

An annual membership fee of 60€ and the commitment of parents in the Board of Directors make many smaller and larger projects possible the "plus", so to speak, for the Aloisiuskolleg.
